

Hello everyone

School has now been closed for seven long weeks. I know how challenging this time has been for many families and our thoughts are with you all. I was very proud to receive a message from 'Into University' recently who said they were impressed with the enthusiasm of their Hannah More children for the home learning.

This week we have tried to get books out to as many of our older children as we can. These have come from the 'stories at home' project and are great reading material. The teachers will be setting up web pages for each book to encourage children to share ideas.

We've also continued to give out Studio Meraki's art kits and have added some new craft kits from Colourful Minds for anyone who missed out in the first round. These are available on Tuesdays between 2 and 4pm at school.

Please keep your news and pictures coming our way we love hearing from you. Read on for other news and information.

Best wishes and stay safe,

Sue Ramsay,
Headteacher

Food boxes...

Last Tuesday we distributed 55 food boxes - a very busy day! Next week we are delighted to have help from Travelling Kitchen. They'll be cooking up a vegetable dhansak recipe from scratch and this will be included in the food boxes. If you're in need of food you can come to school between 2 and 4 to collect a box. We do our best to include a good variety of fresh food as well as pasta, rice, cereal and so on. We're grateful for funding from the lottery's community fund as well as Quartet and FareShare.

Food box comments please!

Please help us by giving some feedback – how this helps, anything you like or don't like and any other support that would be useful to you. You can also help us by sending in photos, children's pictures or comments, by tweeting or by commenting on Facebook. Thanks again!

CREATIVITY

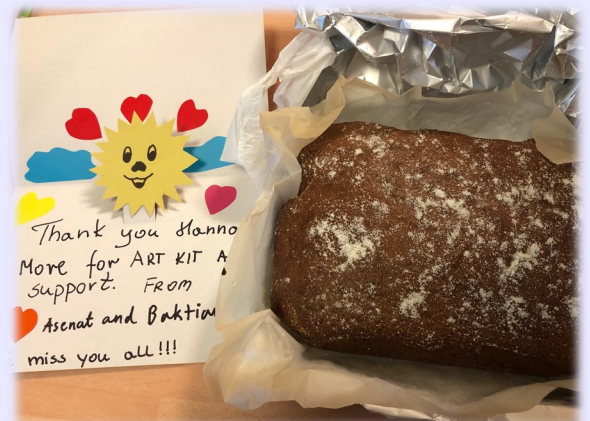

It has been fantastic to see children enjoying Art Kits from our friends at Studio Meraki. Did you enjoy weaving this week? Next week we're looking forward to ... mobiles! We also have some activity packs from Laura at 'Colourful Minds' as well - look out for the jellyfish next Tuesday. We've also enjoyed seeing children making, baking, drawing, gardening and more. Keep it up everyone!

HOME LEARNING

Bristol Learning City is collecting resources for home-learning, including suggestions for children with SEND. The website is being added to all the time. You can view resources by key stage, subject or school year and if you have suggestion you can send them on as well.

Stories at home...

Friends of Hannah More have received a wonderful donation from Sovereign Housing to fund some special books for our families. We started to distribute these this week - please send us your feedback! Actor Joe Sims visited school last Monday to pick up boxes of books to be taken to 20 other schools as well. All these books will help keep children reading during lockdown. The Stories at home project is a city-wide project which has already generated over 2,000 books to be given to families.
